

Research Café

Generating ideas for possible collaborative team research

Research Cafe #3

Date: 9th October 2015 (Friday)

Time: 3:30 pm – 5:00 pm

Venue: GH404

Topic:

New Colleague, New Research Opportunities: Series 1

As part of the initiative to foster inter-disciplinary research collaboration, APSS will host a special Research Cafe to introduce Dr Judy Siu who will be taking up her position as Assistant Professor in APSS but on a faculty-based capacity. Dr Siu at present is Research Assistant Professor at the David C Lam Institute for East West Studies (Environment, Health and Sustainability working group) of HK Baptist University where she teaches “Medicine, Society and Culture”, “Health Communication”, “Communication in Health Organizations” and “Magic, Myth and the Supernatural”. Her current research interests are social construction of mass panic in epidemic, cultural perceptions and folk taxonomies of alternative medicine practices, and family caregiver experiences.

Dr Siu will be most interested in meeting staff members from schools/departments in FHSS and explore collaborative possibilities.
